Dear Ms. Adelson:

For well over a year, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations minority ("the Subcommittee") has been conducting an inquiry into President Trump's corrupt dealings with corporate America, including his solicitations of private donations to construct a gilded and gaudy ballroom on White House grounds.[1] The Subcommittee has previously written to you requesting documents and information about your donation to the President's ballroom, however, you have failed to adequately respond. Given this failure, I am writing to renew my previous request for records and information and to reiterate my expectation that you promptly comply.

The Subcommittee expects you to carefully review and follow the enclosed production instructions to ensure that all records produced can be accessed and reviewed in a timely manner. Please begin producing responsive records by no later than November 30, 2026, with additional records to follow on a schedule agreed upon in advance by Subcommittee staff. Any questions about the scope of the enclosed requests should be relayed to Subcommittee staff well in advance of the deadline. Please also note that failure to voluntarily produce the requested records and information by January 4, 2027, will leave the Subcommittee with no choice but to consider alternative measures to obtain compliance.

Please contact Subcommittee staff by November 9, 2026, to confirm receipt of this letter.

Dear Mr. Winklevoss and Mr. Winklevoss:

For well over a year, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations minority ("the Subcommittee") has been conducting an inquiry into President Trump's corrupt dealings with corporate America, including his solicitations of private donations to construct a gilded and gaudy ballroom on White House grounds.[1] The Subcommittee has previously written to you requesting documents and information about your donation to the President's ballroom, however, you have failed to adequately respond. Given this failure, I am writing to renew my previous request for records and information and to reiterate my expectation that you promptly comply.

The Subcommittee expects you to carefully review and follow the enclosed production instructions to ensure that all records produced can be accessed and reviewed in a timely manner. Please begin producing responsive records by no later than November 30, 2026, with additional records to follow on a schedule agreed upon in advance by Subcommittee staff. Any questions about the scope of the enclosed requests should be relayed to Subcommittee staff well in advance of the deadline. Please also note that failure to voluntarily produce the requested records and information by January 4, 2027, will leave the Subcommittee with no choice but to consider alternative measures to obtain compliance.

Please contact Subcommittee staff by November 9, 2026, to confirm receipt of this letter.

Dear Mr. Sethi:

For well over a year, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations minority ("the Subcommittee") has been conducting an inquiry into President Trump's corrupt dealings with corporate America, including his solicitations of private donations to construct a gilded and gaudy ballroom on White House grounds.[1] The Subcommittee has previously written to you requesting documents and information about your donation to the President's ballroom, however, you have failed to adequately respond. Given this failure, I am writing to renew my previous request for records and information and to reiterate my expectation that you promptly comply.

The Subcommittee expects you to carefully review and follow the enclosed production instructions to ensure that all records produced can be accessed and reviewed in a timely manner. Please begin producing responsive records by no later than November 30, 2026, with additional records to follow on a schedule agreed upon in advance by Subcommittee staff. Any questions about the scope of the enclosed requests should be relayed to Subcommittee staff well in advance of the deadline. Please also note that failure to voluntarily produce the requested records and information by January 4, 2027, will leave the Subcommittee with no choice but to consider alternative measures to obtain compliance.

Please contact Subcommittee staff by November 9, 2026, to confirm receipt of this letter.

Dear Mr. Tiramani:

For well over a year, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations minority ("the Subcommittee") has been conducting an inquiry into President Trump's corrupt dealings with corporate America, including his solicitations of private donations to construct a gilded and gaudy ballroom on White House grounds.[1] The Subcommittee has previously written to you requesting documents and information about your donation to the President's ballroom, however, you have failed to adequately respond. Given this failure, I am writing to renew my previous request for records and information and to reiterate my expectation that you promptly comply.

The Subcommittee expects you to carefully review and follow the enclosed production instructions to ensure that all records produced can be accessed and reviewed in a timely manner. Please begin producing responsive records by no later than November 30, 2026, with additional records to follow on a schedule agreed upon in advance by Subcommittee staff. Any questions about the scope of the enclosed requests should be relayed to Subcommittee staff well in advance of the deadline. Please also note that failure to voluntarily produce the requested records and information by January 4, 2027, will leave the Subcommittee with no choice but to consider alternative measures to obtain compliance.

Please contact Subcommittee staff by November 9, 2026, to confirm receipt of this letter.

Dear Mr. McDermott:

For well over a year, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations minority ("the Subcommittee") has been conducting an inquiry into President Trump's corrupt dealings with corporate America, including his solicitations of private donations to construct a gilded and gaudy ballroom on White House grounds.[1] The Subcommittee has previously written to you requesting documents and information about your donation to the President's ballroom, however, you have failed to adequately respond. Given this failure, I am writing to renew my previous request for records and information and to reiterate my expectation that you promptly comply.

The Subcommittee expects you to carefully review and follow the enclosed production instructions to ensure that all records produced can be accessed and reviewed in a timely manner. Please begin producing responsive records by no later than November 30, 2026, with additional records to follow on a schedule agreed upon in advance by Subcommittee staff. Any questions about the scope of the enclosed requests should be relayed to Subcommittee staff well in advance of the deadline. Please also note that failure to voluntarily produce the requested records and information by January 4, 2027, will leave the Subcommittee with no choice but to consider alternative measures to obtain compliance.

Please contact Subcommittee staff by November 9, 2026, to confirm receipt of this letter.

Dear Mr. Vena:

For well over a year, the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations minority ("the Subcommittee") has been conducting an inquiry into President Trump's corrupt dealings with corporate America, including his solicitations of private donations to construct a gilded and gaudy ballroom on White House grounds.[1] The Subcommittee has previously written to you requesting documents and information about your donation to the President's ballroom, however, you have failed to adequately respond. Given this failure, I am writing to renew my previous request for records and information and to reiterate my expectation that you promptly comply.

The Subcommittee expects you to carefully review and follow the enclosed production instructions to ensure that all records produced can be accessed and reviewed in a timely manner. Please begin producing responsive records by no later than November 30, 2026, with additional records to follow on a schedule agreed upon in advance by Subcommittee staff. Any questions about the scope of the enclosed requests should be relayed to Subcommittee staff well in advance of the deadline. Please also note that failure to voluntarily produce the requested records and information by January 4, 2027, will leave the Subcommittee with no choice but to consider alternative measures to obtain compliance.

Please contact Subcommittee staff by November 9, 2026, to confirm receipt of this letter.
